NIKAIDO

SHOCHU. Have we met?

Since 1866, Nikaido has remained family-owned in Oita, Japan for eight generations. The same standard. The same recipe. This is how we got here with two expressions.

Nikaido 'The Original' - Among the first to craft shochu from 100% barley, and the first to bring it fully to market in 1974. Clean, bright, unmistakably itself. Lower in alcohol. Easy to drink. Made to be enjoyed at your pace. 900ml, 24% ABV, Honkaku Shochu.

Kitchom - The aged expression. 100% barley shochu, given additional time to mellow and deepen, then filled into a traditional ceramic tsubo (壺つぼ) flask. Each one expertly-crafted, hand-painted, and unique. 720ml, 24% ABV, Honkaku Shochu.

FASHION AWARDS

Runway 7 Fashion was inspired by the 7th Avenue and Fashion Avenue street signs in New York City's historic Garment District, where countless designers have built their dreams. More than just street signs, they represent the history, creativity, and ambition that have defined New York's fashion industry for generations.

Today, Runway 7 Fashion continues to embrace the spirit of creativity that first inspired its name. What began with two street signs has grown into a company designed to celebrate individuality, empowering all through style and reminding everyone that every great journey starts with a single step and sometimes, a single intersection.
